IN-HOUSE SEMINARS with ROBERT C. WORTHINGTON, LLB

Secrets of Requests for Proposals

In this intensive, full-day seminar, we examine in detail the Request for Proposal process and explore in-depth the new Laws of Competitive Bidding covering the RFP process. We cover the basis of these changes in law, the new legal duties of the Owner who issues the RFP and the corresponding obligations upon Bidders. We then look at several topics and issues of a practical nature with respect to RFPs. Throughout, we will review numerous case summaries and legal issue notes covering topics relevant to RFPs. Topics include:

- Binding and non-binding RFPs
- The Request for Proposal Contract
- The Obligations of the Owner in RFPs
- The Obligations of the Proponents in RFPs
- The Risks of pre-award commitments
- Negligent Misstatement and controlling this legal risk
- Evaluation criteria and systems in RFPs
- Mandatory v. Desirable Criteria in evaluation and award
- Bias and Conflicts of Interest in Competitive Bidding
- Negotiation with Proponents - risks and rewards
- Common problems in RFPs
- Recent cases concerning RFP law and practice
- Liability of Consultants in RFPs.

The secrets you learn in this course will help you improve your RFP processes. Participants will come away from the seminar with a new appreciation of how to protect themselves and their organizations from the legal risk inherent in administering the RFP process.
